For County Commissioner B. F. Williams of Mystic, a member of the board for eleven years, and much of that time chairman, it was his last meeting, as his term is soon to expire. Recognition of his faithful and painstaking interest in the home was made in the proceedings of the meeting. For County Commissioner C. H. Smith of Noank, on the other hand, it was his first annual meeting, although he had been present at the home on the occasion of the summer picnic. County Commissioner C. D. This was followed by the detailed report of Mrs. Frank A. Mitchell, secretary, showing the extensive work carried on in the year as follows: As the years go on it becomes more and more difficult to tell in a concise way a story of the year which shall interest you gathered from all parts of the county, and shall yet be a true exponent of the spirit and purpose of the work, and of what has really been Proper and Attractive Condition.

The house speaks for itself. Your attention has more than once been called to the fact that although enlarged and added to numerous times, it has not kept pace in growth with the steadily increasing number of children housed under its roof. No great improvements have been inaugurated, but many constant repairs have kept the whole structure in proper, and you have the best of the but had received the but had received the but had receiv but many constant repairs have kept the whole structure in proper, and you will doubtless add in attractive condition. This good appearance is not put on for the day of annual meeting alone, but prevails throughout the year, a fact which may be demonstrated by visits at unexpected times, the house being open for your inspection on all days of the year except Sundays. days of the year except Sundays.

Health Has Been Excellent. It does not take the training or ex-perience of an expert to know that the air-space in the dormitories is far less than it should be, but it speaks vol-umes for the wise and careful man-agement of Miss Gibson, and for the liberal prevision of the commissioners that in spite of our crowded condition when 96 children were cared for in a house with a capacity of only 70, that the general health of this large fam-ily has been excellent.

After three years' absence Miss Gibson seems better fitted than ever to bear the varied and arduous responsi-bilities of this home, and has the unqualified approval and co-operation of its toard of management. In July, in accordance with a vote of the children, a picnic was held under the trees in the rear of the house, in place of the usual car ride given by the commissioners, at which plenty of cake, ice cream and candy were served, rounding out another happy day.

Reports were made of more than 125 children, and in practically every instance showed the little ones in homes where they were happy and contented, where the people are pleased to have them, and where they were under good influences for the formation of character and proper habits and ideas of life. In a number of instances, the families would on no account part with their children now that they had them, in several cases the children were so devoted to their homes that they cried for fear they were to be taken away when the visitor called on the inspection tour. One girl had gotten into a home where it was likely she would be favored with Visitors Present. The visitors' register showed the at-tendance of the following during the day: The three county commission-ers, B. F. Loss to Board.

By the death of Mr. Comstock the members of the board of management have lost a valued and congenial co-worker, and the children a true friend.
